Lymphoedema Information Day

For people with lymphoedema or at risk of developing it, their family and friends, health professionals or anyone interested in learning more

Saturday 28th May 2016
8.30am – 4.00pm

Darwin Convention Centre
Darwin Waterfront

In conjunction with the 2016 Asia Pacific Lymphology Conference, a Public Day will be held on Saturday 28th May 2016. People with lymphatic conditions, their family and friends, and health care workers will be able to hear from international and national experts in the field of lymphology. We are confident that you will be inspired and motivated by the presentations and that you will gain valuable new information to assist you in managing your condition as well as assist others to grow in their knowledge of the condition.

Who will benefit from attending?

- Those who have been diagnosed with lymphoedema, lipoedema, venous oedema or other oedema problems
- Those at risk of developing these conditions
- Family and friends
- Health care professionals who want to gain a broad overview of lymphoedema/oedema and its management

The presence of consumers/patients at ALA and ILF conferences is important and welcome, as it is your lived experience that gives direction to research and development in the field. Please plan now to join us for this unique opportunity.

Presentations will cover topics such as the causes, diagnosis, assessment and treatment of lymphoedema/oedema/lipoedema, self-management and risk reduction strategies, and coping with the psychosocial aspects of chronic lymphatic conditions. In between all these learning opportunities, you will be free to visit the Exhibition Hall, where you can view the clinical posters and linger over trade displays of all the latest lymphoedema products and discuss ideas with the creative people who design and make them.

Registration will open in early 2016.

To keep the day registration fee as low as possible for participants, we are seeking outside sponsorship. If you or someone you know (individual, government agency, organisation, business etc) could assist with sponsoring the Lymphoedema Information Day, please contact:
